Annual Report 2015-16

Habitat for Humanity® of East Jefferson County

Ryan, 16, worked more than 100 hours on his family's house, impressing the volunteers with his growing skills.

every parent wants a better future for their family

It had been more than five years since our family felt any sense of permanence in our living situation. For a short time, we were essentially homeless. We were ready for some stability and a more affordable house. Encouraged by a friend, we visited Habitat for Humanity to find out if our family qualified. We heard the news of our acceptance the week of Thanksgiving 2014.

Over the course of the following year, we shared life with many Habitat volunteers and had the unique opportunity of three generations of Botkin men swinging a hammer side by side. A strong sense of camaraderie developed as volunteers brought snacks, ran dump loads, painted and repainted, caulked and caulked and caulked, raked compost and planted flowerbeds, built fences, etc.

A week before Christmas 2015, just over a year after that special Thanksgiving, our family moved into our new home, complete with a tree! Our new neighborhood is such a blessing and we are so thankful!

We continue to see familiar faces around town and our hearts feel enlarged with the love of our neighbors expressed to us through working side by side to help us create a house that has now become our home. We cannot adequately express our gratitude to God and our community for the gift of this opportunity.

– Jeremy and Cameron

Thanks to their hard work and the support of Habitat's generous volunteers and donors, Jeremy and Cameron and their children (shown on cover) will put down roots in this community.

Cameron receives the keys and a hug at the house dedication in December.

Jim and Noreen McCarron donated their Chimacum property to Habitat to help families like Jeremy and Cameron's stay in the community.

Jeanne and Duke Shold sponsored two of the three Habitat houses built on the Chimacum property, generously covering the cost of construction.

every home is a strong foundation for a family to build a better life

Jeremy and Cameron look forward to many years in their home, thanks to an affordable mortgage, energy-efficient construction, low utility bills, and Habitat's homeownership classes.

Groves Moore, 18, far right, completed his Eagle Scout project by securing a donation of a wonderful play structure and the help of cohorts to move and install it in Nora's Park, right in the middle of Habitat's Birkenfeld Community in Port Townsend.

every person sometimes needs a hand up

In South County, homeowners partner with Habitat to make needed repairs so they can live safely in their homes for years to come. As with Habitat's homeownership program, participants in the repair program pay back the cost of the repairs with their time and an affordable loan.

Habitat thanks our program sponsors US Bank and United Good Neighbors and partners REPAH, the Boeing Bluebills and OlyCAP, together with the wonderful volunteers who staff the Quilcene Habitat Store.

Breaking News:
Habitat's Board of Directors recently expanded the repair program from Quilcene to include Brinnon and all of South County. Homeowners in need of repairs are encouraged to contact the office, 360.379.2827.

South County volunteers repair a Quilcene home.

Dear
Wonderful
Habitat People,

Once again
I send you a small donation and a huge

thank you for saving my home from further deterioration!

The help Habitat volunteers gave me remains one of the big gifts of my life. I am convinced that aside from love the gift of shelter is the greatest gift that can be given to promote peace in the world. When people are adequately housed it frees them up to be more productive—to work, to study, to reach our potential—and thus contribute and give back or give forward to the world.

Thanks so much for the work you have done and are doing. You truly make a difference!

– Chris

Chris, Quilcene resident and Habitat home repair program participant. After paying back her repair loan, Chris began contributing to help others.

Clockwise from left: Don Olsen paints; Roger and Diane Delmar help in the office; volunteers pick up donations for both Habitat stores, sort, price and sell.

every hand

helps build a stable foundation for a deserving person

shop the Port Townsend and Quilcene Habitat Stores. Your purchases help pay for lumber, windows, plumbing and heating systems to build and repair homes.

donate your gently used furniture and household items to be sold. Habitat will pick them up and turn them into cash to build and repair homes.

volunteer your time—with a hammer, a paint brush, a computer or a cash register. Help someone help themselves!

give or volunteer online www.habitatejc.org

every gift makes a difference

Donors, Jan 1 - Dec 31, 2015

Your support—$20 a month or any amount you can afford—helps a family build a decent place to call home.
Give online at www.habitatjec.org.

“Jefferson County Habitat for Humanity is my favorite organization to contribute to. I not only see the positive impact it is having on the families of the homeowners but also how it unites the entire community towards a common goal.” – Phil Hallin, supporter

every number tells a story

Volunteers:

- 18,200 hours
- 397 volunteers
- building and repairing homes
- working in the Habitat Stores
- helping in the office, on the Board and committees, and providing hospitality

In 2015:

- five families worked with Habitat to build their homes and to prepare for homeownership by taking classes
- one recycled home and three new homes completed and sold to Habitat homeowners
- $42,200 paid by Habitat homeowners in property taxes

Since 1998:

- 37 homes completed
- 6 homes bought back from Habitat families, refurbished and sold to new homeowners
- 2 homes sold directly by Habitat homeowners to qualified, low-income homebuyers
- 14 homes repaired in Quilcene
- zero foreclosures
- 45 families served overseas by sharing a tenth of unrestricted contributions with Habitat chapters in developing countries

Commitment to transparency and accountability:

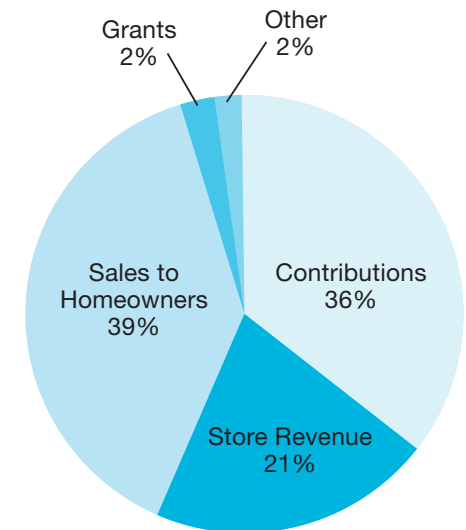

- of each dollar raised, 87 cents goes directly to programs
- 4 Star Charity Navigator, second year in a row
- GuideStar Gold Seal of Transparency

Children of homeowners are 116% more likely to graduate from college compared with children in families who do not own their homes.

EXPENSES

SUPPORT & REVENUE

Staff from First Federal Bank frame walls. First Federal Community Foundation is the Construction Sponsor for the 38th Habitat house in East Jefferson County.

I love how the community owns Habitat for Humanity.

One of the things I will always recall about 2015 is the way our Quilcene Habitat Store volunteers, many of whom live in Brinnon, advocated passionately for Habitat to extend its home repair program from its initial focus on the core of Quilcene to Brinnon and the rest of South County.

I'm thrilled to tell you that we are preparing to do our first home repairs in Brinnon. Our name says we serve East Jefferson County. Now our actions say it, too.

This expansion is possible because Habitat belongs to the community! The generous support of donors and volunteers, together with their guidance and advocacy, are the key.

Thanks to all who join us in this work. Every One Deserves a Decent Place to Live!
